HANDWRITING COMPETITION

"Poor handwriting should be regarded as a sign of an imperfect education" - Mahatma Gandhi

Research proves that those who take notes by hand remember more information as compared to those who don't; so developing this skill is a milestone for brain-building and learning. Writing is one of the criteria upon which one's work, learning, and intellect is often assessed. Writing exercises help in the development of our motor skills.

Handwriting is an art that helps to teach children muscles control and hand eye coordination, which are essential skills for students. It is an incredibly important exercise for students as it encourages them to develop their fine motor skills and confidence. It also activates the frontal lobe of the brain and contributes to reading fluency.
